

PROPOSAL FOR STRATEGIC COLLABORATION

Youth Rise Development Organization (YRDO) × Special Communications Organization (SCO)

Youth Empowerment, Digital Inclusion & Community Development in Gilgit-Baltistan

1. Executive Summary

Youth Rise Development Organization (YRDO) respectfully submits this proposal to the Special Communications Organization (SCO) for a long-term strategic collaboration focused on empowering young people, expanding digital opportunities, and strengthening community development across Gilgit-Baltistan (GB). YRDO recognizes and appreciates SCO's continued contribution to the region, particularly its work in information technology, digital connectivity, and youth-oriented initiatives. We believe that the objectives of SCO and YRDO are strongly aligned: both seek to create opportunities for young people and contribute to a more connected, skilled, and empowered GB.

Through this partnership, YRDO proposes that SCO become a long-term co-partner in youth-focused events, camps, training programs, awareness activities, and community initiatives organized by YRDO in different regions of GB. Rather than limiting collaboration to individual events, we envision a sustainable partnership in which SCO and YRDO jointly identify needs, design initiatives, mobilize youth, and deliver measurable impact in underserved and marginalized communities.

2. About Youth Rise Development Organization (YRDO)

YRDO is a youth-focused development organization working to create meaningful opportunities for young people through community engagement, volunteerism, skills development, awareness, and collaborative initiatives. Our approach is centered on taking opportunities closer to communities that are often underserved or have limited access to resources, networks, training, and development programs.

YRDO currently has a volunteer network of more than 1,000 individuals, more than 20 active members involved in organizational activities, and a growing network of partners and community connections across Gilgit-Baltistan. This network provides YRDO with a strong grassroots presence and the ability to mobilize young people for activities in different regions.

3. Why SCO–YRDO Collaboration?

SCO has already made significant contributions to Gilgit-Baltistan, especially in the IT and digital sector. Its efforts to expand connectivity, promote technology, and create opportunities for youth provide an important foundation for the future of the region. YRDO would like to complement and extend this vision by bringing youth mobilization, community outreach, volunteers, local partnerships, and grassroots implementation into a structured collaboration.

We believe that SCO's technological vision and YRDO's youth and community network can create a powerful partnership. Together, we can reach young people beyond major urban centers and take practical opportunities, learning experiences, camps, and development activities into marginalized and underserved areas.

4. Proposed Areas of Collaboration

- Joint organization of youth development events, camps, workshops, seminars, awareness sessions, and community activities across different regions of Gilgit-Baltistan.
- Digital and IT-focused programs, including digital literacy, technology awareness, skills development, and opportunities for youth to learn and engage with the digital economy.
- Youth empowerment initiatives targeting underserved and marginalized communities, with special attention to young people who have limited access to development opportunities.

- Career, entrepreneurship, innovation, and skills-oriented sessions that help youth connect their education and abilities with practical opportunities.
- Volunteer engagement and community mobilization through YRDO's existing volunteer network of 1,000+ individuals.
- Joint awareness campaigns on technology, education, digital inclusion, responsible digital citizenship, and other mutually agreed youth-development themes.
- Support for regional youth camps and outreach programs, where SCO and YRDO jointly determine the location, objectives, resources, and implementation plan.

5. Proposed Partnership Model

YRDO proposes SCO as a long-term co-partner for its youth-focused initiatives in Gilgit-Baltistan. Under this model, SCO would be recognized as a strategic partner across mutually agreed YRDO programs, while individual activities would be planned and implemented through separate mutually agreed event plans.

The collaboration would remain flexible and activity-based. For each initiative, both organizations can jointly agree on the scope, location, dates, target participants, branding, technical support, logistics, resource requirements, and roles and responsibilities. This will allow the partnership to grow according to the needs and priorities of youth in different communities.

6. Proposed Roles of YRDO

- Mobilization and registration of youth and volunteers.
- Community outreach and coordination with local stakeholders and partner organizations.
- Identification of local needs and suitable locations for activities.
- Event coordination, volunteer management, and on-ground implementation.
- Participant communication, documentation, and post-event reporting.
- Building sustained engagement with youth after each activity.

7. Proposed Role of SCO

- Strategic collaboration and partnership support for mutually agreed youth initiatives.
- Technical, digital support and financial support, where applicable and feasible.
- Participation of relevant SCO representatives in selected programs, sessions, camps, and awareness activities.
- Support in strengthening IT and digital skills opportunities for youth.
- Collaboration on outreach activities that align with SCO's youth and digital empowerment vision.
- Support and participation in joint branding, communication, and recognition of collaborative initiatives, subject to mutual approval.

8. Expected Impact

The proposed partnership can help create a stronger bridge between technology, youth, and communities in Gilgit-Baltistan. By combining SCO's experience and capabilities in connectivity and IT with YRDO's grassroots youth network, the collaboration can extend opportunities to communities that may otherwise remain outside the reach of major programs.

- Greater access to digital learning and technology awareness.
- Increased youth participation in community and development activities.
- Improved exposure to skills, careers, entrepreneurship, and innovation.
- Stronger volunteer and leadership opportunities for young people.
- More inclusive development activities in underserved and marginalized areas.
- A sustainable platform for SCO and YRDO to jointly support the youth of Gilgit-Baltistan.

9. Long-Term Vision

Our vision is not limited to one event, one camp, or one project. YRDO would like to establish SCO as a trusted and long-term co-partner in our youth development journey. We believe that a continuing relationship will allow both organizations to move from individual activities toward a coordinated ecosystem of youth empowerment across Gilgit-Baltistan.

We envision a partnership where SCO and YRDO work together to identify underserved communities, understand their youth-related needs, design practical interventions, mobilize local youth, and measure the impact of each initiative. With continued collaboration, this model can become a sustainable example of how technology, connectivity, volunteerism, and community development can work together for the benefit of young people.

10. Conclusion & Request for Partnership

YRDO respectfully invites SCO to join us as a long-term strategic co-partner in our efforts to empower the youth of Gilgit-Baltistan. We deeply value the work SCO has already undertaken for the region, particularly in the IT and digital sector, and we believe that our grassroots youth network and community engagement capacity can complement that work.

We are confident that, by working together, SCO and YRDO can reach more young people, particularly those living in marginalized and underserved areas, and create meaningful opportunities for learning, skills development, digital inclusion, leadership, and community participation.

We therefore look forward to a positive response and an opportunity to discuss this proposed collaboration with the relevant SCO team. YRDO is ready to work closely with SCO to develop a mutually beneficial framework and begin with jointly agreed pilot initiatives, with the long-term goal of building a lasting partnership for the youth of Gilgit-Baltistan.

11. Proposed Next Steps

1. Initial meeting between SCO and YRDO representatives.
2. Discussion and confirmation of the areas of mutual interest.
3. Identification of one or more pilot youth initiatives in GB.
4. Agreement on roles, responsibilities, branding, technical support, and resource requirements.
5. Joint implementation, documentation, and evaluation of the pilot activity.
6. Development of a longer-term collaboration framework based on the results and lessons learned.
